CLEAN SPIRIT

E15's minimalist distillery for Stählemühle

Located in an 18th-century watermill in Eigeltingen, Baden-Württemberg, the old Stählemühle estate comes with a deceptively quaint stone exterior. But inside, the former flour mill houses an altogether more modern environment, thanks to publisher, entrepreneur and gin-connoisseur Christoph Keller, who has been working with furniture maker E15 to convert the space he acquired in 2004 into a high-end distillery. After the refurbishment of the residential house and conversion of the old piggery into an office, the distillery and tasting space was the last section of the project to be completed. E15 has cleaned it up with a raw, smoked oak floor, an understated lighting design and a bespoke sideboard folding out as a mini kitchen. A new distillery boiler, custom-designed and built by the German coppersmith Arnold Holstein, is the cherry on the torte. Keller, who produces more than 100 different fine fruit and herb spirits under the brand Stählemühle, also acts as master distiller for the Black Forest Distillers, with which he has recently launched the premium Monkey 47 dry gin. ## LOVE HANDLES

Westphalian company FSB (named after its founder Franz Schneider, and its location in the town of Brakel) has spent nearly 130 years specialising in high-quality door furniture. The pared-down simplicity of its door fittings makes it a favourite of interior architects both at home and abroad. The range includes designs by Mario Botta and Jasper Morrison. From top, '1138', price on request, by Dieter Rams; '1004', €80, by David Chipperfield; '1216', €70, by Santiago Calatrava, all for FSB, www.fsb.de

FEEL THE ROTH

Established in 1987, leading Hamburg practice Carsten Roth is responsible for one of the best projects recently completed on the river Elbe, an award-winning office complex, with shimmering copper-coloured façades, called the Columbia Twins. Also of note among the practice's recent work is this elegant cantilevered art storage depot, a white minimalist box designed to house late sculptor Karl Prantl's artwork in Burgenland, in neighbouring Austria.
